

Sisco Christmas Letter from Mike & Eddie

2024

Edition

Mike's World

Nothing really new in my world; I just keep getting older, weaker and uglier. NOT a good scenario!!!

That said, I'm still a VERY FUNNY GUY!

In my own mind, at least. Maybe you will discover some of my humor here.

Worked some early in the year until lazy took over.

Tried dating some but they all said I was too ugly and went running away.

Can't blame them for that. Sorry, this isn't the humor you were looking for!

Ready for "black tie" event

YES, I wrap all of the packages. It's quite an effort but someone has to do it.

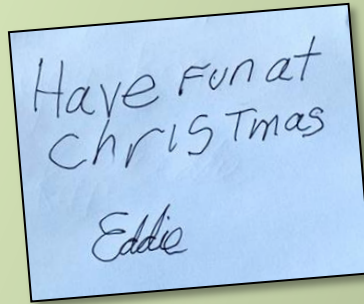

And yes, I usually get all tangled up in tape and ribbon.,., but you who know me are not at all surprised.

Sometimes, I just have to laugh out loud.

Eddie's Corner

This year has been good but also a challenging one. Three hospital visits through the end of October,,, hope to get through the year ok.

Eddie handles it all with a smile & positive attitude. He is tough and my inspiration!

Eddie always seems to be able to attract pretty nurses, techs and therapists.

Many of them quite often remember him from a prior visit or Rehab Center.

Our Tennessee VOLS have had a good year!

- NCAA Baseball Champs
- Football Playoffs (10-2)
- Both Basketball teams looking good.
- Great Softball Team

Sisco Christmas Letter - 2024

Our Christmas card this year is inspired from Dorine's art.

Oh how she loved Christmas and all that it means.

She made it SPECIAL !!

Christmas Memories

Dorine created four sizes of her "pot soldier" made from 5 clay pots. The tallest is 5 feet and always sits on our front porch at Christmas. The smallest is only 12" tall. She painted dozens of them for gifts and sold many as well.

A typical afternoon – Eddie joins me in my office (the "bunker") and we watch TV. He likes the quilt Mom and Karla made and gave him "with love" for Christmas last year.

Meet Baby Beckham

Just For FUN

Katie and Mitchell welcomed their first baby (Becham) to the world on November 30. As he is the first boy on Mark's side, I'm sure all the girls will look after him and spoil him. BECKHAM the LUCKY!

Sydney, Hayley and Kathy

We were hoping for a Nov. 23rd birth (Eddie and my Dad's birthday), but missed the landing. Maybe next time!

, , , and a Happy New Year

25
2024

Mark & I gave each other similar Christmas gifts last year!
He is getting taller, , , or I'm getting shorter.
--- Now, that's funny!! ---

Eddie and Karla having fun at Halloween
Can't say enough about Karla;
she makes Eddie's day (and mine).

Eddie and I hope you have a fantastic Christmas and that 2025 will be a super year for your family.
